Notes

The Concept English Unit and Lesson Plan Requirements describes how ALL 6-12 Units are laid out. Color Key: Black = Content, Blue = Research-based strategies from Concept Toolkit, Green = Writing/Reading/Speaking/Listening from HMH online, Orange = suggestions, Green = research-based strategies to be used/writing. We provide for 6 -12th grade core English classes. Using Focus Standards and examples of test question types our Units are built backwards from the Performance Based Assessment (PBA). In addition, Concept English provides a model week of elements that need to be included in each teacher's lesson plans. Teachers compact the curriculum and/or add to it based on the current data of her/his students. Our units have more than 600 attachments to help teachers facilitate the delivery of instruction. Teachers also receive professional development and a quick Tool Kit for instructional strategies. The body of the unit is written in black (do), green (research based strategies and writing connected to PBA), and orange (activities and ideas to build background knowledge and create interest). Each teacher needs a Teacher's Manual and their online access codes from Houghton Mifflin Harcourt (HMH) Collections to be able to benefit from these marvelous resources. ### Standards

Essential Questions

Each unit indicates the Essential Question/Enduring Understanding. Essential questions are essential but can be modified to fit the classroom. These elements provide a focus for instruction. It is a way to chunk a unit of study and allows the teacher to select only aspects of instruction that impact the larger understanding you want students to have over time. There will be other questions, of course, but this is the one teachers return to throughout the unit. In addition, teachers may also develop smaller, more specific questions for individual readings.

For Example

Enduring Understanding: Fear affects the brain and the body. Essential Question: What role does fear play in shaping who I am and what I do?

Enduring Understanding: Change is part of who we are. Essential Question: What does my response to change say about who I am?

Content/Academic Vocabulary

Color Key: Black = content, Blue = Research-based strategies, Green = Writing/Speaking/Listening from HMH, Orange = Ideas/Suggestions

NOTE: Honors Classes read ALL content in Collections plus additional readings assigned by teachers, plus BOTH PBA's at the end of the Unit.

Each unit has a brief, paragraph summary of the whole unit. This helps the teacher see the context for learning the individual readings and why the essential question/enduring understanding has been chosen. In addition, there will be academic vocabulary - Tier 2 - words teachers should model and repeat throughout the unit. Teachers add additional vocabulary from the readings and determine which strategies they believe will help their students.

Insert Concept English At-A-Glance (Chart will not print but is attached)

The following example (6th grade) demonstrates how the Content/Vocabulary section works for ALL 6-12 Units.

Unit Overview

Students explore how people experience fear and how fear affects the brain and body. Students analyze a variety of fiction, non-fiction, and poetry selections learning to cite textual evidence and describe the elements of a particular story, informational text, or poem. Students are expected to delve deeper into readings using Close Reading strategies and writing assignments to demonstrate what they have read.

FOCUS STANDARDS* (align these with tools like Measuring Up and AR 360)

CCSS (Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin) Focus Standards: RL.6.3, RI.6.3, 4 & 5, SL.6.1, L.6.4, W.6.2

Indiana Focus Standards: 6.RL.2.3, 6.RN.3.2, SL.2.1, 6.RV.2.1, 6.W.3.2.b

Missouri Focus Standards: 6.RL.2.D, 6.RI.1.C & 2.A, 6.SL.1.B, 6.W.2.A.b

Ohio Focus Standards: RL.6.3, RI.6.2 & 5, SL.6.1, L.6.4.c, W.6.2

* Every state has a standard that asks students to cite textual evidence. No matter what standard is being tested students will be asked to prove it with evidence (Standard 1 in most states). Using evidence implies students can infer and analyze.

Sample Lesson Plan Activities

Facing Fear selections appear on Page 2d of the HMH Collections Teacher's Manual. Teachers plan lessons using research-based strategies that allows them to deliver instructions and build the skills necessary to master the 2 Anchor Texts and Final Performance Task. This means that since the Units reference the FOCUS STANDARDS, teachers must add additional standards/skills to their Units that students may need. It is also suggested that teachers add readings from Newsela and ReadWorks to support group work. If schools have budgets we highly recommend Leveled Reader bundles from Scholastic.

Refer to the HMH online resources for support. On the dashboard are the Interactive Writing & Speaking Activities. Also, under the Teacher Resource Tab you will find a drop down: English Workshop, Grammar Notes, Graphic Organizers, History/A & E Videos, etc.

Insert Concept Middle School Weekly Model (Chart will not print but is attached)

Note: The elements listed in the model week are essential. Teachers may reach out for support at any time via email and telephone. Teachers will need to "chunk" parts of the Anchor Texts and use the "Analyze Text" questions that follow the readings to create bell ringers and exit slips. Sample question stems aligned to Focus standards follow the readings.

Daily Lesson Plan Design

Teachers are expected to create a safe and curious environment for students that reflects a Balanced Literacy approach and employs the Gradual Release Model of instruction. If teachers need support with these models there is information on the Concept English website (<http://english.conceptschoools.org/resources/>) and Webinars are offered as well.

Possible Activities to Get Into the Unit (orange means suggestions)

1. Students are presented a PP on Managing Emotions and take 2 column notes (attached)
2. Students review a PP on phobias (attached)
3. Students work on the etymologies of phobia words (attached)

Collections - "Fine?" short story, "Stuff That Scares Your Pants Off" information text, "Wired for Fear" online Science article

Newsela - "The Tree House," "The Office"

Other - Teacher Choice

Student objectives (I can statements)

I can statements reflect the deconstruction of the standards into "kid friendly" language. They also help students to connect content to their own lives and/or own personal way of thinking. They tend to be more engaging than formal education language. Teachers may also deconstruct the language even further where necessary. I cans also reflect the teachers understanding of what is under each standard in terms of necessary skills.

Once teacher has selected the standards for the Unit, the options will appear for I cans in the drop down menu.

For example

1. If a teacher checks the standard - determine an author's point of view in a text and explain how it is conveyed in the text.

2. A teacher will have the option to check one of the two I cans below.

I can determine an author's point of view or purpose in a text

I can analyze how an author conveys his/her purpose in a text.

A teacher might also take this further and say

I can figure out what the writer is trying to suggest by...

The I Can should be posted on the board and repeated throughout the lesson.

Lesson Plan/Activities/Strategies

August 18, 2017, Friday

BEFORE

Teachers indicate the way they will establish a tone or direction for the lesson. This may include bell ringers that activate prior knowledge, practice new skills, and introduce I can statements.

In addition to the Before, During, and After format teachers will be asked to select the standards being taught that day.

It is important that Concept teachers state the I can and post the I can repeating it throughout the lesson.

DURING

Teachers describe how they will engage students in the content. This should include the steps and focus on how students will master the standards.

Steps to the lesson and the strategies being used to deliver content instruction. This can also become the agenda for the day.

Remember that Concept English promotes a balanced literacy approach to instruction and expects teachers to use the gradual release model of modeling, practicing together, and then students working independently (I do, We do, You do).

AFTER

Teachers indicate how they will bring closer, wrap up, and/or summarize the learning. In addition, teachers describe how they will measure the learning. This may be an exit ticket, a summary paragraph, or a check quiz.

August 21, 2017, Monday

Accommodations/Differentiation

Differentiation is essential for our Concept students. We have a wide variety of learning styles and grade level abilities in addition to our special needs students. NWEA and other diagnostics will have an impact on accommodations, but we know that IEP's will populate this page and provided a handy reference for teachers. Teachers will also do learning style indicators and other personality surveys during the first week of school that will help them determine how to group and for what purpose. Information will also be gleaned from tools they use like AR 360. An attachment of differentiation strategies and ideas will be included in each Unit.

We expect teachers to use small group differentiation at least twice a week. Teachers should consider this chart.

Insert Group Differentiation Graphic (Chart will not print but is attached)

Assessments/Assignments

Concept students need multiple forms of assessments and feedback. In addition to NWEA and State tests, we expect our teachers to create authentic assessments and execute the Performance Based Task (PBA) at the end of each of the 6 units. Teachers are encouraged to review released State tests. In addition, writing rubrics for each State are attached. It is best practice to have students compare/contrast rubrics (PBA vs. State for similarities).

Depending on your situation, teachers may sense ability levels vary throughout the classroom. Schools/teachers may want to consider the Benchmark Assessment System (BAS) advocated by our Director of Upper Elementary Education. This diagnostic will help you with ability groupings and will also help facilitate an effective use of Levelled Classroom libraries.

During the Unit, it is helpful for teachers to use the Level Up tutorials from HMH to reteach

Example PBA for 6th Grade Unit 1 - Prepare 1 day a week throughout Unit and 2 days at the end

Teachers assign the PBA with the rubric at or near the beginning of the Unit and scaffold necessary sub-standards/skills that will lead to mastery. It is expected that teachers take students through the writing process throughout the Unit and provide formative feedback to help meet the needs of individual student writers.

Unit 1 for each grade level contains links to your state website assessments and rubrics.

PBA: Expository Essay (Rubric in book should be compared to State Rubrics attached)

CCSS Focus Standard: W.6.2

Indiana Focus Standard: 6.W.3.2.b (Note Indiana will have teacher created Quarterly assessments as well)

Missouri Focus Standard: 6.W.2.A.b

Ohio Focus Standard: W.6.2

There are, also, many smaller tasks throughout the 6 Collections Units that address the smaller, sub-standards/skills. They have been indicated in green. Also, the HMH online resources have many options such as the Interactive Whiteboard Lessons. We do not suggest teachers give the whole end of unit test as it is very, very challenging. The best option is to use only test items that align with the focus standards and/or teacher's create their own quizzes using the Focus Standards.

Schools have a number of different tools for teachers to chart student progress between the larger assessments. In addition to helping students individually, these tools have the ability to help our teachers group by ability and skill level. THIS YEAR WE EXPECT 2 DAYS A WEEK TO HAVE SMALL GROUP DIFFERENTIATION. We encourage teachers to have a system for tracking formative and summative assessments/behaviors as well as having students maintain a Data Folder.

Note: SIS Grade book allows you to track student work by standard.

If teachers are making their own tests, here is a handy link from Edutopia: <http://www.edutopia.org/assessment>.

We strongly encourage assessment of student public speaking and group work since we know that oral language proceeds the written word. Building skill orally will have a positive impact on student writing.

6-8th grade students complete a pre and post writing assessment. Teachers use the tools (AR 360/Measuring Up) in their buildings to practice skills between the three NWEA tests and implement reteaching.

9-12th grade students complete 3 EOC assessments - each of these have constructed response items as well as an essay and align with College Readiness (ACT/SAT). They align in large part to the Focus Standards. Based on the results of each EOC teachers create a re-teach plan by skill/standard.

Resources

Houghton Mifflin Harcourt (HMH) Collections is the chosen Concept English textbook for grades 6-12. Note: Teachers obtain their online pass codes from school administrators or directly from the HMH Rep for their region. See chart on Concept English website:

<http://english.conceptschoools.org/resources/>

The Fountas & Pinnell BAS System tool recommended by our Director of Upper Elementary Education is strongly suggested.

Phyllis C. Hunter Classroom Libraries from Scholastic are strongly suggested, especially for 6-8th grade independent reading.

Units also include attached Readings that can be modified by Lexile for small group differentiation from Newsela and ReadWorks. (indicated in orange).

Novels. Teachers chose novels from the approved list on our website under Resources ( <http://english.conceptschoools.org/resources/>) or submit a request, following the guidelines provided indicating how it will be used in our Unit. Schools should discuss during common planning time which novels are being used and where to avoid duplications. NO MORE THAN 3 NOVELS PER YEAR.

Reflections

On-going reflection is essential for the Concept English Master Teachers. Teachers may want to try the Kolb's Model of Reflection (attached) or simply keep an open word document on their desk top. Dedicating ten minutes a day to type in something that worked, something that didn't, and something she/he wants to try again can have positive results.

Standards

Essential Questions

How does knowing who you are and how you think help you be a better student?

Let students know that behind every essential question is an enduring understanding of something that you want them to know. For this question it is when you know who you are and how you think chances are you can be a better student.

This question helps you focus instruction to master the standards. A great website for many topics is <http://www.thirteen.org/edonline/concept2class/standards/index.html> and it gives some great information on what standards are. Students need to have understanding of what these standards are and why we want them to master them.

Content/Academic Vocabulary

Color Key: Black = Content, Blue = Research-based strategies, Green = Writing vis HMH, Orange = Ideas/Suggestions

Unit Overview

Teachers lay out his/her expectations for the year and build rapport with the students. This unit is the time to select activities to help students understand how they learn best and to build cooperative inter-dependence between students in the class. It is highly suggested that teachers employ learning style indicators, determine preliminary ability groupings, develop shared classroom rules, introduce journal and reading log procedures, set up portfolios, and implement diagnostics. All of these activities can help the teacher lay out the road map for the year ahead and help students master the standards. One area that CCSS and now Ohio ask us to consider as we create rigorous learning environments is Bloom and Webb's Depth of Knowledge. Remember that the word "analysis" appears more than 70 times in our standards.

Schools/Teachers should also consider how to use their character education or PBIS approaches during this unit to strengthen policy/rules across the school, halls, and subject classrooms.

Layout of the Classroom

In/out box

Student Folders/Portfolios

Materials/Libraries

Anchor Charts - to be referred to throughout the year

Writing Process - stages of the writing process

Stations or Areas

Levels of Thinking (Chart does not print but attached)

Of no less importance is the establishment of daily rituals and routines that students become aware of and count on to be in place. Students should become familiar with the sections of the daily lesson (Bellringers, I cans, strategies, Exit slips, etc.), where materials are stored, the various work stations throughout the rooms, homework policy, and expectations that are outlined in the course syllabus (attached).

We strongly encourage the use of a Binder System that asks students to become responsible for their learning. It is checked monthly, first with students assessing their own work and then teachers using the same rubric to check for accuracy. The binder is organized around the systems introduced during the rituals and routines unit. Each day students put into their notes section, the agenda, learning standards and, as necessary classroom notes. Each quarter students first fill out their own rubric (attached).

Academic Vocabulary

Select key process words (20) that you plan to use throughout the year. Reward their use.

Things to include in this unit:

- syllabus
- learning style indicator or survey
- binder systems - set up and have students self check with a binder rubric modified for grade level
- scavenger hunt of text/text structures
- portfolio set-up
- a favorite exit-slip
- a checklist for informational writing
- setting a purpose and annotating/close reading
- group work contracts
- steps for enhancing discussions
- text dependent questions
- blooms question stems

Cover how and where you want these kept for handy reference in student binders!

Student objectives (I can statements)

I can statements reflect the teachers deconstruction of the standard to kid friendly language. While we have them here for you to select (after you have chosen the standards above) they may be further deconstructed in the classroom. To focus instruction, there should usually be one or two only, per period.

Assessments/Assignments

Teachers in 6, 7, and 8th grade use one of these days to do the pre-writing assessment. Focus is on how students read a passage and use this passage in their writing to answer a question/prompt.

Teachers/schools work with specialists/APA's using NWEA and/or other data tools like Measuring Up Live and AR 360 to begin identifying those students in need of RTI or other forms of intervention.

Unit/Collection 1 - Facing Fear [9/4/2017 to 10/20/2017]

Notes

This unit utilizes the reading and writing activities included in the textbook, "Collections" for 6th grade, published by Houghton Mifflin Harcourt (2015). A curriculum map and Focus Standards overlay was provided to teachers April 2017 and was then posted on the Concept English website. Teachers follow the 6 unit scope and sequence but can make adaptations to fit their individual situations as informed by student data from NWEA, EOC's, and other tools like Measuring Up and AR 360. Teachers change the dates (From/To) above to fit their school calendar and then the lesson plans will populate with the correct dates. Second, teachers read through the explanation/context of the unit under Content/Academic Vocabulary (use the scrollbar). Within each section (all headings created by SIS are orange) requirements appear in black, strong suggestions are in orange, and blue indicates the researched-based strategies to use and green indicates the writing/speaking/listening strategies from HMH. Once the teachers have an understanding of the unit he/she can begin compacting and/or adding to the unit (also informed as the receive data on student performance). Teachers must add standards, beyond the Focus Standards, depending on the necessary skills that must be taught to reach mastery of all standards by years end. Finally, it is important that lesson plans allow us to see what is happening in the classroom following the before, during, and after format. Teachers attach resources, activities, and other strategies that they are using if they do not already appear in SIS.

Essential Questions

Essential Question: What role does fear play in shaping who you are and what you do?

Enduring Understanding: Fear affects the brain and the body.

Content/Academic Vocabulary

Color key: Black = required, Blue = research-based strategies, Green = writing/speaking/listening via HMH, Orange = Ideas/suggestions

NOTE: Honors Classes read ALL content in Collections plus additional readings assigned by teachers, plus BOTH PBA's at the end of the Unit.

Unit Overview

Students explore how people experience fear and how fear affects the brain and the body. This may include an inquiry into the types of fear humans face or even how Science approaches the research. Students analyze a variety of fiction, non-fiction, and poetry selections learning to cite textual evidence and describe the elements of a particular story, informational text, or poem. Students are expected to delve deeper into readings using Close Reading strategies and writing assignments to demonstrate what they have read. Teachers expose students to a balance of reading, writing, speaking, and listening activities, and use the gradual release model to organize instruction: I do, we do, you do. Attached under resources are specific, research-based strategies for both informational and fictional reading in 6th grade. The unit will conclude with students writing a well-crafted Expository essay where they choose a fear and write about citing readings from the unit and additional research they have done.

FOCUS STANDARDS* (align these with tools like Measuring Up and AR 360)

*Every state has a standard that asks students to cite textual evidence. No matter what standard is being tested students will be asked to prove it with evidence (Standard 1 in most states). Using evidence implies students can infer and analyze.

Lesson Plan Activities:

Facing Fear selections are on Page 2d of the Teacher's Manual. Teachers plan lessons using research-based strategies to deliver instruction and build the skills necessary to master the 2 Anchor Texts and final Performance Task (PBA). The Anchor texts are challenging and require chunking and modeling to deconstruct texts. Teachers also select additional texts to practice the Focus Standards/skills modeled with the Anchor Texts. NOVELS may be used but must be a companion to the Unit (Read-Alouds and Independent Reading but no more than once a week to practice what is being taught in the Unit) but no more than 3 per year. Since the Units are tagged with Focus Standards only, teachers must add the additional standards they determine are needed to reach mastery.

Refer to the HMH online resources for support. On the dashboard are the Interactive Writing & Speaking Activities. Also, under the Teacher Resource Tab you will find a drop down: English Workshop, Grammar Notes, Graphic Organizers, History/A & E Videos, etc.

Model Week Middle School (Chart will not print but is attached)

Note: The elements listed in the model week are essential. Teachers may reach out for support at any time via email and telephone. Teachers will need to "chunk" parts of the Anchor Texts and use the "Analyze Text" questions that follow the readings to create bell ringers and exit slips. Sample question stems aligned to Focus standards follow the readings.

Daily Lesson Plan Design

Teachers are expected to establish a safe and curious environment for students that reflects a Balanced Literacy approach and employs the Gradual Release Model of instruction. If teachers need support with these models there is information on the Concept English website (<http://english.conceptschoools.org/resources/>) and Webinars are offered as well.

Possible Activities to Get Into the Unit (orange means suggestions)

1. Students are presented a PP on Managing Emotions and take 2 column notes (attached)
2. Students review a PP on phobias (attached)
3. Students work on the etymologies of phobia words (attached)

- Collections - "Fine?" short story, "Stuff That Scares Your Pants Off" information text, "Wired for Fear" online Science article
- Newsela - "The Tree House," "The Office"
- Other - Teacher Choice

Student objectives (I can statements)

I can statements reflect the deconstruction of the standards into "kid friendly" language. They also help students to connect content to their own lives and/or own personal way of thinking. They tend to be more engaging than formal education language. Teachers may also deconstruct the language even further where necessary. I cans also reflect the teacher's understanding of what is under each standard in terms of necessary skills.

Once teacher has selected the standards for the Unit, the options will appear for I cans in the drop down menu.

Accommodations/Differentiation

Differentiation is essential for our Concept students. We have a wide variety of learning styles and grade level abilities in addition to our special needs students. NWEA and other diagnostics will have an impact on accommodations, but we know that IEP's will populate this page and provided a handy reference for teachers. Teachers will also do learning style indicators and other personality surveys during the first week of school that will help them determine how to group and for what purpose. Information will also be gleaned from tools they use like AR 360. An attachment of differentiation strategies and ideas will be included in each Unit.

We expect teachers to use small group differentiation at least twice a week. Teachers should consider this chart.

Assessments/Assignments

Concept students need multiple forms of assessments and feedback. In addition to NWEA and State tests, we expect our teachers to create authentic assessments and execute the Performance Based Task (PBA) at the end of each of the 6 units. Teachers are encouraged to review released State tests. In addition, writing rubrics for each State are attached. It is best practice to have students compare/contrast rubrics (PBA vs. State for similarities).

Depending on your situation, teachers may sense ability levels vary throughout the classroom. Schools/teachers may want to consider the Benchmark Assessment System (BAS) advocated by our Director of Upper Elementary Education. This diagnostic will help you with ability groupings and will also help facilitate an effective use of Leveled Classroom libraries.

During the Unit, it is helpful for teachers to use the Level Up tutorials from HMH to reteach

PBA for 6th Grade Unit 1 - Prepare 1 day a week throughout Unit and 2 days at the end. Rubrics are handed out at the beginning of the Unit.

Teachers assign the PBA with the rubric at or near the beginning of the Unit and scaffold necessary sub-standards/skills that will lead to mastery. It is expected that teachers take students through the writing process throughout the Unit and provide formative feedback to help meet the needs of individual student writers.

PBA: Expository Essay (Rubric in book should be compared to State Rubrics attached)

Interactive Lesson on writing informational texts and doing research

There are, also, many smaller tasks throughout the 6 Collections Units that address the smaller, sub-standards/skills. They have been indicated in green. Also, the HMH online resources have many options such as the Interactive Whiteboard Lessons. We do not suggest teachers give the whole end of unit test as it is very, very challenging. The best option is to use only test items that align with the focus standards and/or teacher's create their own quizzes using the Focus Standards.

Schools have a number of different tools for teachers to chart student progress between the larger assessments. In addition to helping students individually, these tools have the ability to help our teachers group by ability and skill level. THIS YEAR WE EXPECT 2 DAYS A WEEK TO HAVE SMALL GROUP DIFFERENTIATION. We encourage teachers to have a system for tracking formative and sumative assessments/behaviors as well as having students maintain a Data Folder.

Note: SIS Grade book allows you to track student work by standard.

If teachers are making their own tests, here is a handy link from Edutopia: <http://www.edutopia.org/assessment>.

We strongly encourage assessment of student public speaking and group work since we know that oral language proceeds the written word. Building skill orally will have a positive impact on student writing.

6-8th grade students complete a pre and post writing assessment. Teachers use the tools (AR 360/Measuring Up) in their buildings to practice skills between the three NWEA tests and reteach.

9-12th grade students complete 3 EOC assessments - each of these have constructed response items as well as an essay and align with College Readiness (ACT/SAT). They align in large part to the Focus Standards. Based on the results of each EOC teachers create a re-teach plan by skill/standard.

Resources

Houghton Mifflin Harcourt (HMH) Collections is the chosen Concept English textbook. The online materials are indicated in green in these Units. Teachers must obtain codes from school leadership and/or HMH Regional Reps. For information see the Concept website:

<http://english.conceptschools.org/resources/>

The Fountas & Pinnell BAS System tool recommended by our Director of Upper Elementary Education is strongly suggested.

Phyllis C. Hunter Classroom Libraries from Scholastic are strongly suggested, especially for 6-8th grade independent reading.

Units also include attached Readings that can be modified by Lexile for small group differentiation from Newsela and ReadWorks. (indicated in orange).

Novels. Teachers chose novels from the approved list on our website under Resources ( <http://english.conceptschools.org/resources/>) or submit a request, following the guidelines provided indicating how it will be used in our Unit. Schools should discuss during common planning time which novels are being used and where to avoid duplications. NO MORE THAN 3 NOVELS PER YEAR.
